Dear Sir, Dear Mrs,

As a second year student in computer science engineering, I am writing to apply for a 3 to 6 months internship at Riot Games Los Angeles, starting from June 2024.

I've had a passion for video games since childhood and wish to explore the professional world through this internship opportunity. During my studies, I acquired a solid background in programming, which enabled me to design and develop several video game projects in teams and individually. Furthermore, as the president of my school's video game development club, I had the opportunity to organize various in-house events, such as the creation of an arcade machine, tournaments on games created by the club, training sessions on Unity, and even the project to host the Global Game Jam at our school. I also took part in an exhibition of independent video games organized by a local non-profit organization, Toulouse Game Dev, which gave me a taste of the professional world of video games.

Thanks to these experiences, I was able to expand my skills in various aspects of video game development, including programming (using tools such as Unity and C#, or Godot) and game design. Moreover, working in a team on these projects has greatly strengthened me in key skills such as communication, project management, and collaboration.

I am strongly motivated to apply for an internship at Riot Games because of the company's unwavering commitment to diversity and inclusion. In my opinion, Riot Games goes beyond being a gaming industry leader. It is a community that seems to value and promote the diverse experiences, identities, and perspectives of its members. I believe that this commitment to diversity not only fosters belonging but also fuels creativity, and ultimately enhances the player experience. Riot Games' values align with my own, and I am eager to contribute my skills and learn from the Riot community.

I'm convinced that my technical skills, creativity and enthusiasm could be an asset to your company. I'm ready to invest myself fully in this internship, to learn new skills and bring my knowledge to contribute to the development of innovative projects.

Thank you for considering my application. I look forward to the opportunity to discuss how my skills and experiences align with your needs.

Yours sincerely,
